Rumania: The regime has taken another important step to meet popular expectations and to ensure popular support.

Plans have been announced to boost wages and salaries by 10-15 percent, increase family allowances, and reduce the income tax. These measures are feasible because of Rumania's rapid industrial growth and the currently favorable prospects for the 1964 grain harvest. A little over a week ago an amnesty for almost all political prisoners was also announced.

Although consumer supplies have been increasing, it remains to be seen whether the regime will be able to meet consumer demand once the new program begins to go into effect on 1 August.

Czechoslovakia-US: President Novotny has made a personal gesture aimed at improving relations with the United States.

Novotny made a special point of speaking at length only with the US ambassador at a ceremony opening the National Assembly on 23 June. He seemed to want to convey an impression of agreeableness and reasonableness, praised the US for its moderating influence on "revanchist" tendencies in West Germany, and declared that "we intend to be free and are not a satellite."

Over the past year Prague has demonstrated in small ways its desire to improve relations with the West--in particular the US. Novotny, mindful of the favorable outcome of the recent US-Rumanian talks, probably felt a demonstration of good will was needed to advance Czech interests.

NOTES

*Congo: [Tshombé arrived in Leopoldville this morning and will meet with Adoula. His presence will result in a period of intense political maneuvering by the various factions regarding the formation of a new "transitional" government. A number of Tshombé supporters will put heavy pressure on President Kasavubu to include Tshombé in the new government, perhaps even as premier.]

DAILY BRIEF

Italy-MLF: [The Italians, influenced by the British position, seem to be increasingly doubtful that they can subscribe to a charter for a seaborne multilateral nuclear force (MLF) before the end of the year. Premier Moro said this week that the Socialist members of his coalition continue to have serious reservations regarding the project, and that "undue pressure" on Italy to meet the "US deadline" could result in a government crisis. In Paris, US Ambassador Finletter is concerned that Britain's proposal for multilateral land-based and airborne nuclear forces might furnish the Italians an excuse to delay on the charter until well into 1965.]
